Wisbech & Fenland Museum opened in 1847 when Wisbech's Museum Society and Literary Society amalgamated. It continues to collect, care for, and interpret the natural and cultural heritage of Wisbech and the Fens. The museum welcomes visitors from the whole community, inspiring them to discover the history of the town, surrounding areas and its people.

Brief Title:

Researching and curating an exhibition exploring slavery

A curator manages collections of objects and works of art in a museum. Their role is wide ranging and everyday tasks include cataloguing, researching objects and collections, planning exhibitions, administration, managing budgets and keeping records.

The Museum Directors would like you to develop a temporary display in the Museum using items from the collections of the Wisbech & Fenland Museum to accompany an upcoming programme of talks in the museum.
